AUDIT OF POLITICAL ENGAGEMENT IN SERBIA 2014

As part of the initiative Open Parliament, the Center for Research, Transparency and Accountability (CRTA) conducted its second "Audit of Political Engagement in Serbia" with support of the Ipsos Strategic Marketing, British Embassy Belgrade and National Democratic Institute.

The Audit presents the assessment of the state of democracy in a society. Its main objective was to determine the level of citizens' interest and motivation to participate in democratic processes in Serbia, including different forms of engagement: from voting in elections to concrete actions. The level of citizens' motivation to participate in political processes, exercise their civic rights and influence decision making is the main indicator of the 'health' of a society.

METHODOLOGY

- Sample type: Three-stage stratified random representative sample (First stage unit: Territory of polling station; Second stage unit: Households SRSWoR random procedure; Third stage unit: Respondents within households Kish grids)
- ✓ Sample size: 2014 n=1040, 2013 n=1060
- ✓ Data collection method: Face-to-face at the respondent's houshold
- ✓ Data collectin period: August 21 25, 2014
  February 15 25, 2013
- ✓ Post-stratification: According to gender, age and region
- ✓ Margin error: ±3.31%

Citizen participation in democratic processes was surveyed through three groups of indicators:

- ✓ Knowledge and interest
- ✓ Engagement and participation
- ✓ Satisfaction with the work of the Parliament and the Government, and confidence in the effectiveness of civic participation
